

Figure 1: 5456'-5458' x192 XPL.

Massive lithic rock. The dominant framework grains are composed of volcanic fragments. Primary intergranular pore space is evident at E2, secondary intragranular porosity is also evident at F5, having formed as a result of the partial leaching of a detrital feldspar grain.

